Summary

Ivanka Trump joined White House as a senior advisor. As a diplomat, she met Kim Jong Un, and defined it as “women’s economic empowerment”. She declined to speak out about the separated families along the America-Mexico border, and that her father in twitter told four democratic color congresswomen go back from where they come. It is not because her purview’s limit, but she didn’t want to.

Though she has said to service to the American people, not simply for herself, multiple people close to she said that she spoke of her time in the White House as “sand in an hourglass”, and indeed, she showed her eagerness to participate in the historic photo ops.
